

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells of the Plans Made by Society for Halloween—Miss Antoinette Geyelin Introduced at a Tea

THE debutante party today will be the tea which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Laussat Geyelin, of Hardwicke, Villanova, will give for their youngest daughter, Antoinette Geyelin, Antoinette has been having a wonderful time this season and is generally liked. She is rather dark and good looking and wears very pretty frocks. She and Edith Carpenter are great chums; you seldom see one without the other.

Doctor and Mrs. Giuseppe Bastianelli, who came lately from Italy, will be at the tea. Next Mrs. Bastianelli, who is Miss Marion Rawle, is a sister of Mrs. Geyelin. And the girls who will receive are Sarah Dolan, Edith Carpenter, Mary and Edith Geyelin, Marion Bann, Edith Newlin, Mary Norris, Rhoda Brooke, Eleanor Robb, Nancy Dunning and, of course, Antoinette's sister Hatty.

WHEN you woke up this morning after last night's party at the Ritz for the Orchestra and thought "This is Halloween" didn't you want to turn over and sleep until tomorrow evening?

Not that you did not want to have the fun of today, but it's the very thought of all the doings that makes you head sort of ache, isn't it? Feas, and dances and dinners, and parties for the kiddies, till honest-to-goodness, you don't where they start nor where they end.

I think it's because the war is over and perhaps, unfortunately for us, we do not all appreciate the chaotic condition of affairs in this country at present, or maybe if we do have decided to have a good time anyhow.

Be that as it may, the parties scheduled for to-day are unquestionably many. Take the children's affairs for instance; out in Chestnut Hill there will be the party which Dr. and Mrs. Murray Elzey will give for their two daughters and the Edward Norrises will have a party for members of the school set. Their daughter, Emma Norris, is about fifteen, you know. Then the Morris Clothiers are having a small party in Villanova for their little daughter, Mary, and the Murdoch Kennicks are having a small party for 5 till 9 o'clock for their daughter Christine out at Stratford.

A party for another children is to be given by Mrs. George Justice and Mrs. Billie Hart, at the Hart's house, in Radnor, for Dorothy Justice and Billy Hart, Jr., and the John Seymour Blorens, of Devon, will give a party for their little daughter.

Another party will be given by Mrs. Voorhes Drayton for her two charming little girls, Phoebe, who is named for her mother, and Nancy, who is named after her Drayton grandmother.

The Robert Trumps are giving a party for Sarah in their home, White Green, in White Marsh and the George Thers are having planned an affair for Gertrude.

Evelyn and Nancy Page are having a paper and masquerade party, which their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Page, will give at their home, 315 South Sixteenth street, and the Francis H. Strawbridges will entertain in Germantown for their daughter, Elizabeth.

Among the older parties—that is, not children's affairs—will be the luncheon which Sergeant Price, Jr., will give for Mary Ernestine Appleton, a debutante of the season, you know, and Frances Tyson is having a party at her home in town, 1508 Spruce street.

The Emory Michalows are giving a buffet supper and dance for Elizabeth, their niece, who is to marry Stuart Clark, tomorrow. The Michalows are at a Halloween party, as usual, at their home, 1508 Spruce street.

And you think I'm finished now, don't you? But good night! Have you forgotten the Halloween dance at the Merion Cricket Club for the Sunnyside Day Nursery? That's tonight, too, so for goodness sake, don't forget it. Every one will be there, and something else is going to that, I do assure you.

And there are to be many number of dinners before that party, too. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Janney will entertain for Dorothy Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clothier will give a dinner for Elizabeth Strubing before the dance also. The other dinners will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Vaucalin for Constance Vaucalin; Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers Maxwell for Sarah Stabler, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Longstreth, Miss Edith Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Norman K. Conderman.

NANCY WYNNE.
